About Program Review

Program Review is an essential process for college program enhancement and performance. It is a process of self-reflection on the effect a program has had on student learning. There are two parts to program review: annual update and comprehensive program review (6-year). Both reports are connected to resource allocation. Moreover, learning outcomes assessment is essential to the process. Academic programs, student services, and administrative programs all complete program review.

Annual Update

Annual update is a brief report from each program on the progress of goals created in the previous comprehensive program review. Annual updates are completed every spring and are connected to resource allocation.

Comprehensive Program Review

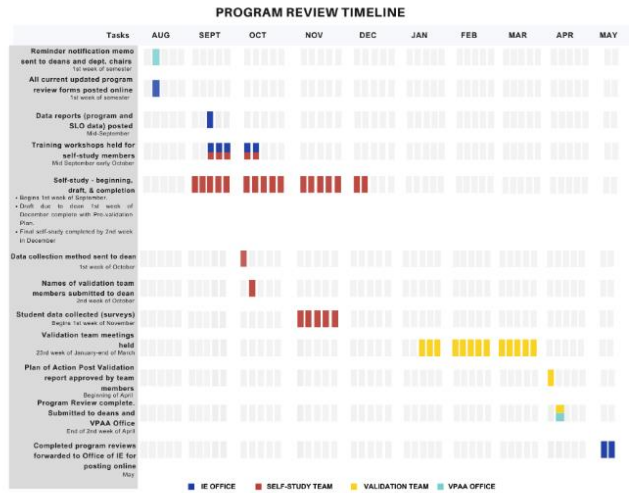

Comprehensive Program Review is completed every 6 years and is a holistic program reflection that relies on both quantitative and qualitative data. The report is connected to resource allocation and planning.
